

I bought the C Series because of the price.
I'm keeping it because of the sound.

The C Series is a new line of guitars that look and sound like guitars that cost much more. The only thing that doesn't appear expensive about the C Series is the price tag. That's the difference between getting a value on a guitar and getting a valuable guitar.

Conn C Series guitars are made from the finest woods—close-grained spruce, select rosewood, seasoned mahogany and more. They produce a rich, warm tone that's ideal for any kind of music. And it isn't just the guitar that sounds good—it's you. Because the action is smooth, fast and responsive.

C Series is perfect to the letter, from the precision machine heads to the "C" inlay on the peghead. The price tag may give you a great first impression. But the sound you create will leave the last impression. For you and your audience.
